

NATIONAL ATOMIC TESTING MUSEUM
IN ASSOCIATION WITH THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

Press Release – Release Immediately

WHAT: International Obscura Day at the National Atomic Testing Museum

WHEN: Wednesday, May 30, 2015

10:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m.

WHERE: National Atomic Testing Museum

755 East Flamingo Road Las Vegas, NV 89119

CONTACT: Joe Kent, Director of Education at 702-794-5144

COST: $12 (Must be paid through Atlas Obscura)

Join the National Atomic Testing Museum for a curated artifact showcase and guided tour of the only congressionally designated National museum in Las Vegas!

Celebrating the return of Atlas Obscura's International Obscura Day, the museum will be presenting a very special day of programming! Joe Kent, Director of Education, will be leading a guided tour of the museum and discussing the history of the Nevada Test Site and America's nuclear testing program. Meanwhile, Karen Green, Senior Curator, will give visitors a rare peek into artifacts from the museum's collection that most guests never have the opportunity to see.

Those interested must pay for the event through Atlas Obscura's Eventbrite post. A link will soon be available on the National Atomic Testing Museum's Facebook page. Please note that Atlas Obscura will be charging an additional fee of $1.29 to help fund next year's International Obscura Day.

National Atomic Testing Museum
755 East Flamingo Road Las Vegas, NV 89119
NationalAtomicTestingMuseum.org